

ACOFS Fact Sheet

Australian Council of Film Societies

NUMBER 03-B (Revised 1 May 2018)

DVD DISTRIBUTOR CONTACTS and PRICES

Government Libraries

The National Film and Sound Archives (NFSA) in Canberra operates two collections, although these may be combined in due course.

Their archive collection includes 35mm, 16mm and some DVDs, but these generally do not have any screening rights associated with them. To borrow them, approach the NFSA directly.

The NTLC. The NFSA also operates the Non-Theatrical Lending Collection (NTLC), which includes mainly 16mm and DVD titles. Their loan charges include the non-theatrical screening rights. As 16mm films get older and rarer, loans of 16mm films will become more limited and more expensive and the 16mm collection will ultimately be moved to the archive collection. DVD loans however (which include some BluRay) should continue but the collection will focus more on Australian content and titles made available from other Archives. Rights for titles available commercially in Australia will be allowed to lapse. Charges are likely to increase with inflation.

A new development for 2018, is that where the NTLC hold the screening rights, they may approve the screening of your own copy of that DVD on payment of the usual DVD loans charge to the NTLC. This will be particularly useful where an NTLC DVD is found to be on loan at the time you might wish to borrow it.

For more details see ACOFS Fact Sheet 2. Details, including current charges, can also be found at their website www.nfsa.gov.au/.

To contact them, Email nontheatric@nfsa.gov.au or phone 1800 012 175.

The current contact there is john.klyza@nfsa.gov.au.

The Australian Centre for the Moving Image (ACMI) is situated in Melbourne, and has a 16mm collection which is not promoted. The DVD collection is no longer available to borrowers as they do not have public screening licences. See their website www.acmi.net.au/ ACMI are currently appraising the entire collection of 200,000 items, mainly 16mm, with a view to deciding which are to be de-accessioned or repatriated. Until this work is complete, the future of the collection cannot be decided.

To access the French, German or other embassy collections, call Nick Richardson, 03 8663 2468 or nick.richardson@acmi.net.au.

Check their catalogue on <http://www.acmi.net.au> and go to collections.

Commercial DVD Distributors

To cater for the situation where a film society provides the DVD themselves (whether purchased or borrowed) ACOFS has developed a procedure for locating the rights holder of that DVD and paying an agreed and fair price for the non-theatrical screening rights directly to the rights owners or their agents. The agreements apply for film societies that are current members of an ACOFS-registered State Federation. For additional information on how this scheme works, see ACOFS Fact Sheet 3-A.

Remember that this agreement applies only where the society is a member of a State Film Federation (which is in turn a member of ACOFS), screens non-theatrically and a legal copy of the DVD is supplied by the society. It does NOT include supply of the DVD.

Remember to get permission BEFORE you promote or screen the DVD or you may find yourself paying commercial rates of as much as $300 per screening.

The State Federations that are current members of ACOFS are:

- Federation of Victorian Film Societies inc.
- WA Federation of Film Societies,
- Tasmanian Federation of Film Societies,
- Federation of Queensland Film Societies,
- NSW Federation of Film Societies.
- SA Federation of Film Societies

(Contact details can be found on the website. www.acofs.org.au)

Any Film Society that is a member of one of these Federations is also a member of ACOFS.

[Note that the Australian Film Societies Federation, which operates mainly in NSW, has distanced themselves from ACOFS and is not party to this agreement.]

- In some cases the distributor may be able to rent or sell you the DVD for an extra charge, but that is not part of the "DVD Rights agreement".
- Note that the distributor, even if they have the non-theatrical rights for a DVD in Australia, is not obliged to agree to your screening of the DVD. They may have some commercial or promotional reason for delaying approval until later.
- The term DVD as used in this agreement includes BluRay.
- This agreement does not extend to the use of 16mm, 35mm or 2k digital (DCP).
- This agreement assumes the society will provide their own copy of the DVD.
- Allow sufficient time to gain approval to screen the DVD before committing yourself to purchasing the DVD or promoting the screening to members.
- For further information, email dvdrights@acofs.org.au or check out the other Fact Sheets on the ACOFS website.
- DVD screening rights will be charged at $50+GST per screening by all distributors except where indicated otherwise.
- If you screen a DVD more than once then you must pay rights each time, although additional screenings may be at a reduced fee. Ask the distributor/ rights owner.
- If you cancel or postpone an approved screening, contact the rights holder to avoid being invoiced for the screening which did not happen.
- Be ready to quote your State Federation membership number when you contact a distributor.
- It is the average audience number that is important when determining the rights fee – So quote average attendance figures to the distributor, not total membership.

Find the Distributor first:

We suggest you confirm that you can get the rights approval BEFORE buying the DVD or committing to a program. To determine the Australian distributor of a DVD, and the probable rights holder:-

- Check the DVD cover.
- Look it up on www.urbancinefile.com.au or other Australian reviewer website.
- Look up the censor classification index www.classification.gov.au .
- If not listed on the classification listing, try searching using an alternative name or even just the director's name.
- Look it up on www.jbhifi.com.au or other on-line DVD outlet.

- When you know the distributor, translate that to appropriate contact company and/or person later in this Fact Sheet.
- Find out from your Federation newsletter or information sheets whether another society has screened it and ask them.
- Check the website catalogues of the likely distributors.
- Allow plenty of time to get approval before buying the DVD.
- If the rights cannot be found in Australia try Park Circus in the UK (See later chapter)

The contacts at the co-operating DVD distributors are as follows:

Formal Agreements:-

Roadshow:

Amelia Ulrick is the contact, amelia\_ulrick@roadshow.com.au or (02) 9552 8685.

They are agents for:

20th Century Fox,
 AV Channel (some of their DVDs)
 Becker,
 Bonsai Films,
 Buena Vista,
 Dendy,
 Dreamworks,
 Footprint,
 Fox Home Entertainment
 Hopscotch,
 Hoyts Distribution,
 Icon,
 Magna,
 MGM,
 Miramax,
 MRA Entertainment

 United Artists,
 Universal,
 Village Roadshow,
 Walt Disney Pictures,
 Warner Brothers,
 Warner Home Video
 and others.

The Roadshow DVD screening rights charges are as follows. The price will depend on the size of the film society audience which defines the attendance category:-

Attendance Category	Average attendance	Equates to a membership of	rights charge – per screening
A	up to 19	up to 32	$40 +GST
B	20 – 49	33 - 82	$50 + GST
C	50 – 99	83 - 166	$75 +GST
D	100-199	167 - 332	$100 +GST
E	200 and above	333 and above	seek quote
F	n/a	paid admission	seek quote
X	n/a	Private home	None payable

Notes:

1. ACOFS will assume the average attendance is 60% of the peak society membership unless stated otherwise by the film society.
2. A film society may have several groups or “streams” in which case each stream may be allocated a different category.
3. The "F" category, regardless of the society size, indicates that the organisation sells individual entries so is “commercial” and should seek a quote from the distributor.
4. This price structure is subject to further review.

5. The agreement may not apply to outdoor screenings because it is usually impossible to limit the screening to members only.
6. The agreement does not apply to film festivals because access is available to individual screenings. They are regarded as “commercial” screenings, category F.

Madman:

Non-theatrical rights are now booked through Amalgamated Movies. See details below.

The full Madman catalogue is on www.madman.com.au but be aware that this includes some titles they distribute for other suppliers, for which they do not manage the screening rights.

Their charge for a free-to-public screening, which does not come under this agreement, is currently $300 +GST – also using your own DVD. Contact Madman in this case.

Madman are agents for some DVDs marked AV Channel and some Umbrella titles.

Note that for Studio Ghibli titles such as “The Wind Rises” Madman are restricted by the production company, and reserves the right to charge up to $350 for the non-theatrical rights for their DVDs.

TYSPOM provides Film Societies with:

If you come across any other distributors or contacts please let us know at ACOFS, so we can add them to this list. dvdrights@acofs.org.au

Also if you know of any titles you would like to screen but are unable to find an Australian distributor or rights owner.

If all else fails, try Park Circus, in the UK

If you are unable to find any rights holder in Australia, you could try contacting Park Circus in the UK.

ACOFS has negotiated an agreement with Park Circus, who hold rights for many DVD titles themselves and are agents for UK libraries, and are prepared to sell screening rights to Film Society members of ACOFS at a reasonable charge. This charge may be more than we have negotiated with Australian companies but it is better than individuals have been able to negotiate directly.

Park Circus is located in Glasgow and their website is www.parkcircus.com.

Park Circus represents over 25,000 titles internationally although these are mostly for theatrical rights. However, the British libraries they represent also include non-theatrical rights. There is a search function at the site for finding requested film titles.

From the so-called "Orphan DVDs" societies have identified to date, the following have been confirmed as available through Park Circus:

The 39 Steps

The African Queen

Fried Green Tomatoes

The Red Shoes

And based on our research, the following may also be available through Park Circus:

24-hour Party People

Butterfly Tongues

Contempt

A Kind of Loving

Last of the Mohicans

Monsoon Wedding

Reach for the Sky

Secrets and Lies

Song of the Sea

Timbuktu

Whistle Down the Wind

Withnail and I

The procedure to obtain screening rights for any of the films handled by Park Circus is as follows:

1. Ensure the rights are not available from an Australian company or from the NFSA. Follow the process described in Fact Sheet 3A and 3B.
2. Search for the title in www.parkcircus.com/films
3. If you find the title (and it is the correct director and year) contact Graham Fulton at Park Circus ( graham@parkcircus.com ) with the following information:
  - a. Introduce yourself, state the film society you represent, and say you wish to purchase DVD non-theatrical screening rights under the agreement Park Circus has with ACOFS.
  - b. State the title of the film, director and year.
  - c. Say you are seeking screening rights for your own copy of the DVD, for a non-theatrical screening at your film society.
  - d. Specify the location and date of the screening.
  - e. Indicate the expected audience size.
  - f. Provide an email address for him to bill you.
4. If approved, Graham will get back to you with approval and an invoice in Australian dollars which will be payable at the time of the screening. The rights charge may depend on the actual title and the size of the audience, and will probably be a minimum of $120 (Australian dollars).
5. When due, pay Park Circus, preferably by bank transfer to the account specified on the invoice. They do not accept PayPal or credit card.
6. Notify dvdrights@acofs.org.au so we can monitor the progress of this agreement.
7. Note that even if the society finds the title at Park Circus there is still no guarantee that the non-theatrical rights can be approved for an Australian screening. Ask for confirmation.

As indicated in the last point, please keep ACOFS informed on whether you use Park Circus and how well the agreement works or whether it needs adjusting in any way.

And as a last resort – If you cannot find a distributor willing to approve the screening and accept your good money for the screening rights, your only legal option is to amend the program and change to a different DVD title.
